4-H Service Project: Historic Barn & Farmstead Survey-

Did you know that Missouri ranks second in the nation for the number of farms with historic barns? Are you looking for a hands-on 4-H service project that engages youth with Missouri's agricultural heritage?

The Missouri State Historic Preservation Office is inviting local 4-H clubs to help with an inventory of historic barns and farmstead structures in the areas where 4-Hers live and meet as a club. Through the office's survey, 4-H members and adult volunteers meet with a landowner, conduct a barn/farmstead survey, record and share their results. The survey can help landowners learn if their barns are eligible for State Historic Preservation grants, or to possibly be listed in the National Register of Historic Places.

4-H members can learn about historic agricultural buildings, connect new generations with the past, record rapidly disappearing agricultural resources, and understand how farming has fostered better living.

To explore how your 4-H club can participate, please see the attached flyer and contact the Missouri State Historic Preservation Office, at moshp@dnr.mo.gov.

If you have questions or are interested in having your child (ren) participate in this research study, please contact Dr. Sarah Killoren (muhdfsnifa@missouri.edu).
