America’s county fairs originated as a means to promote modern farming techniques and equipment. They were developed to be an educational experience for those who attended the fair as observers. They evolved into competitions for livestock exhibitors and contests for participants in domestic arts, and eventually fine arts. In time, local 4-H clubs and FFA chapters were organized. The core values of the early fairs were public education, community celebrations, and youth development.

Today, the American county fair is a tradition that still holds those same core values. I invite you to attend this year’s Knox County 4-H/FFA Fair with a fresh eye and an open mind. Don’t just browse the exhibits displayed in the Art Hall. Take your time and really study them. Think about the local youth who made the items and consider the skills and knowledge that they learned throughout the process.

Watch the livestock shows not as a passive audience member, but as an active participant of the competition. Ask the youth questions about their animals. They are proud of all their hard work! Comment to the local breeders on the quality of their stock. They are just as proud!

As you stroll around the park, think about our community fifty years ago, twenty years ago, ten years ago, and today. Think about how it has changed. Think about what you have learned during that time, and the role our local county fair played. Educate youth about the changes that have taken place in our community over time.

Celebrate our community’s resources. Remember that the fair would not be possible without a lot of hard work from 4-H and FFA volunteer leaders throughout the year. Tell them that you appreciate the donations of their time and knowledge. Seek out those who sponsor an award or donate to the fair in other ways and tell them how much you appreciate their support.

Celebrate our community’s assets, the most important of those being our youth. Tell them how proud your are of them and their project work. Thank them for allowing you to assess their projects. Support and encourage them in every way you can.

The Knox County 4-H/FFA Fair Board hopes everyone in attendance enjoys the fair! This includes our youth exhibitors, their parents who support them, the volunteer leaders who give of their time and expertise, a diverse group of sponsors, the judges, and the spectators.

Sincerely,

Sara Poor, President
2015 Knox County 4-H/FFA Fair Board

You may boast about the circus and the animals so rare, but for sport and real enjoyment, give me the County Fair.

The Knox County 4-H Council provides opportunities for youth to learn and grow. The Council is a policy making board, which has the responsibility of guiding, promoting, and implementing the Knox County 4-H Youth Development program.

The 4-H Council is responsible for approving the curriculum offered within the county. The Council also plans, budgets, coordinates, and manages the many educational events conducted in the county.

Each 4-H Club in the county elects two voting representatives to serve on the council. The council meets regularly in order to transact business, pay bills, receive reports of committees, evaluate programs and plan educational events, contests, and activities.

Recognized adult volunteer leaders offer their time, talent, and resources to our youth. Volunteer leaders contribute in a variety of ways. Many lead projects year round or serve on 4-H committees, plan events, and coordinate local club activities.

The Knox County 4-H Council works cooperatively with the Knox County FFA Chapter in planning and implementing the annual Knox County 4-H/FFA Fair.

The 4-H Council would like to thank everyone who help to make the 4-H program a success here in Knox County.

We hope you’ll join us at the 2015 Knox County 4-H/FFA Fair!

4-H Clover Sale

The 4-H Clover Sale will take place throughout the annual Knox County 4-H/FFA Fair sale. See page 8 for more 4-H Clover Sale information.
The 4-H Clover Sale was established in 2010 to encourage 4-H members to complete their projects, participate in more diverse projects, exhibit multiple projects at the Knox County 4-H/FFA Fair and complete the 4-H program year.

The Knox County 4-H Council is pleased to announce the 4-H Clover Sale will be offered in 2015 for 4-H members who qualify. The 4-H Clover Sale takes place throughout the annual Knox County 4-H/FFA Fair sale.

How it works:

1. Proceeds from the “4-H Clover Sale” will be divided among 4-H members who have completed projects for the 2015 4-H program year, and who elected to not sell an exhibit at the annual Knox County 4-H/FFA Fair sale.

2. 4-H members must complete their project and successfully complete the 4-H program year in order to be eligible to receive 4-H Clover Sale shares.

3. The maximum number of shares a member can receive is four. One of the four projects does not have to be exhibited at the Knox County 4-H/FFA Fair, while the other three must be exhibited at the current year’s fair in order to be eligible.

4. The value of each share will be determined by dividing the amount of dollars raised from 4-H Clover Sale by the number of projects completed by 4-H members who successfully completed the 4-H program year.

5. 4-H members who sell an exhibit during the annual 4-H/FFA Fair sale are not eligible to receive 4-H Clover Sale shares.

6. 4-H Clover Sale shares will be paid to 4-H members during the annual Knox County 4-H Recognition event, traditionally held the first Saturday evening in November.

7. 4-H Clover Sale buyers’ photos will appear in the Edina Sentinel.

Example:

Chris Clover entered one Steer in the Market Steer show, one Electricity exhibit and one Foods exhibit in the Art Hall. Chris chose not to enter an exhibit from his Wood-working project in the fair, even though he did complete his woodworking project requirements. He also elected to not sell an exhibit (live animal or Art Hall) at the 2015 Fair.

Chris successfully completed 4-H project records and submitted them on time to the Extension center in the projects of Beef, Electricity, Foods & Woodworking. He also met all requirements order to successfully complete the 4-H program year (enrollment form & dues paid by the established deadline, attended one over 1/2 the club meetings offered, and submitted project records in one over 1/2 the projects he was enrolled. Therefore, Chris is eligible to receive four shares from the 4-H Clover Sale.
