MO Strike Force Project

StrikeForce Project partnerships include University of Missouri Extension, NRCS/ USDA, and Lincoln University who provide training that will help educate Missouri's farm community, private landowners, conservation organizations, cooperating agencies, and general citizenry by:

- Increasing consumption of local and regionally produced products;
- Increasing customers and sales of local and regionally produced products;
- Strengthening market opportunities for farm and ranch operations serving local markets; and
- Improving food safety of local and regionally produced products.

Free registration to StrikeForce Events for Veterans with veteran ID card.
