Women's Financial Series begins in October

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — If you'd like to gain confidence in your ability to make financial decisions and learn how to manage your money more effectively, then a class this fall sponsored by University of Missouri Extension can help.

The Women's Financial Education Series is designed to help individuals, especially women, increase their current level of financial knowledge, develop confidence in their decision-making ability, and gain control of their lives through informed money management.

This five-session series will be held 6-8:30 p.m. Thursdays, October 5, 12, 19, 26, and November 2 at the University of Missouri Extension Center, 132 E. Monroe Ave., Kirkwood.

Instructors include University of Missouri faculty and local experts. The fee is $49, which covers five sessions, a financial workbook and other financial management resources. Session topics include spending and saving, credit, insurance, planning for retirement, investing and estate planning.

Registration is required. The deadline to register is September 28. Partial scholarships are available thanks to financial support from Wells Fargo. [To register or for more information, call 636-970-3000 or email \[gellmans@missouri.edu\]\(mailto:gellmans@missouri.edu\). All major credit cards are accepted.](#)
