

Washington County 4-H/FFA Livestock Guidelines

(Anything that is not covered under these guidelines will be referred to Missouri State Fair Guidelines)

All exhibitor ages listed is the age of the exhibitor on December 31 of the program year.

General Rules

4-H/FFA members must be enrolled and in good standings with their clubs. In good standings means meeting deadlines, attending 8 club meetings and majority of projects to be eligible to exhibit their projects. There may be other requirements established by the club, county and/or state. These requirements must provide equal access for all youth and must not create barriers to participation.

Independent members is for members living some distance from a 4-H club, who have conflicts with school, work or other obligations, attending a college or university away from home. Independent members must complete an individual plan of study, which is on file in the Washington County University Extension Center. The independent member form may be found at:

<http://4h.missouri.edu/go/get/resources/materials/materials-pages/indexcluborganization.htm>.

Non-Washington County 4-H/FFA members must supply a letter of membership from the youth staff in their home county and follow all the rules set forth in these guidelines.

Clover Kids, age 5 to 7, by January 1st, are not allowed to exhibit or sell animals for competition. Children must be 8 years old on December 31 of the project year in order to show and sell project animals at the Washington County Fair.

If a 4-H/FFA member enters livestock projects in the fair under 4-H/FFA, they will not be allowed to enter exhibits of the same species into the fair under open class.

In order to assure Positive Youth Development at all 4-H/FFA functions, respectable behavior from all parents and children will be expected at all times. 4-H/FFA participants and their families are expected to conduct themselves according to the best traditions of the 4-H/FFA organization. Unsportsmanlike or other inappropriate conduct will not be tolerated. Any violation on the part of a member, or family member, may lead to the member's dismissal from any further classes and/or shows. If such behavior occurs, it will be up to the Executive Council to ask any member to leave for the remainder of the event.

The 4-H Council and Barn Superintendent will have jurisdiction over problems or conflicts that arise at the fair and will see that the fair guidelines are upheld.

All 4-Hers who were enrolled in the Washington County 4-H for any of the previous three years must have enrollment forms (and be enrolled in the specific livestock project) and dues completed and turned in to the Washington County Extension Office by January 1 of the program year in order to weigh-in, show or sell—NO EXCEPTIONS. (April 2011) It is the responsibility of the member and parent to make sure the forms and dues are turned in on-time. New 4-H members, or any previous member who has not enrolled in Washington County for the past three years may enroll at any time. However, they must still meet the 8 meeting requirement to show animals in the fair.

All 4-H/FFA members enrolled in food animal projects including beef, sheep, swine, dairy cattle, meat and dairy goats, rabbits and poultry/waterfowl must complete the appropriate level of Missouri Show Me Quality Assurance (SMQA) Certification to be considered a 4-H/FFA member in good standings. Certification must be completed and turned into the Washington County Extension Office no later than July 31st of the project year. Children who are first certified when they are 13 years and under (age on December 31 of the program year) must take the SMQA in 2 consecutive years then again when they turn 14. Those who are first certified when they are 14 years and over (age on December 31 of the program year) just need to complete the SMQA one time.

If any 4-H/FFA animal loses its ear tags, it is the responsibility of the participant to contact the Washington County Extension Office (573) 438-2671 immediately.

All 4-H/FFA exhibits will be judged on the Danish system, which means each project gets a ribbon and is judged on its own merit. However, livestock will be ranked after ribbons are presented.

If a 4-H/FFA member is going to show or sell livestock that member is responsible for the complete care of that animal at the fair with little or no adult assistance. Members are expected to show their animals without adult assistance. If a parent is concerned that a member might have difficulty controlling their animal in the show ring, the adult may enter the ring and stand along the fence. The adult should only come to the aid of the exhibitor if a situation occurs that is dangerous to the exhibitor or others in the ring. The adult should help the exhibitor regain control of the animal, then return to the fence. If an animal cannot be controlled without help from an adult, the judge is to instruct the exhibitor to tie the animal to the fence. The judge will then place the animal at the bottom of the class. The animal will receive a ribbon and will be allowed to sell. If there is more than one animal placed on the fence by the judge, the judge will place all of the animals at the bottom of the class in the order of the judge's opinion. Example: There are 10 animals in the class. Three animals are placed on the fence. The judge will place those three animals 8th, 9th, and 10th in the order the judge determines is appropriate. The decision of the judge is final!

1. If a child has 2 animals in the same class they can request help from another 4-H/FFA member to show one of the animals.
2. If that child has a physical injury that will not allow them to show that animal they may request help from another 4-H/FFA member.

All 4-H/FFA exhibitors are required to care for and feed their livestock till the end of the fair. Members failing to do so, will not be allowed to exhibit livestock the following year. This decision will be at the discretion of the Barn Superintendent and the Executive Council.

All 4-H/FFA livestock showing up for weigh-in with any contagious diseases must remain in the vehicle they were transported in until all other animals have been weighed. There will be no exceptions!

Any 4-H/FFA livestock that is sold at the county fair cannot be shown at the State Fair unless the seller and buyer have signed a Youth Show & Sale Advance Sale Agreement. This form may be printed off of the Missouri State Fair Website or picked up at the Washington County Extension Office.

All 4-H/FFA market animals must be full fed for 90 days prior to the fair.

For sale signs will not be permitted inside the barns for any livestock.

In the event a 4-H/FFA member cannot show their livestock at the fair due to death or disability of the animal or other uncontrollable circumstances, the member may not replace the animal. However the member may still participate in the showmanship class.

At least 2 people from each club MUST be present to help put the show ring up after the fair closes on Wednesday night and take it down Thursday night.

Pending the purchase of new scales and in light of the variability of numbers read on the scale, the person reading the scale will record the highest weight within the variability. Animals that DO NOT make minimum weight MUST go home by the end of the day.

4-H/FFA livestock entries are made with the understanding that the Washington County Fair Board Association is not responsible for any injury, loss or damage that may occur to any person, animal or articles.

All stall assignments will be made by the 4-H Council Executive Council. No stalls will be allowed to be reserved.

All male animals of any species must be castrated by the time of spring weigh-in with the exception of a bucket calf or a bull.

4-H/FFA members, parents and leaders must work to encourage bidders and buyers for the livestock auction.

Each 4-H/FFA member is responsible for making arrangements to take animals they sell at the auction to slaughter.
