

Module 2 – Character Development Theory - Quiz

You have just participated in a presentation on the theory behind character development. This program is part of a series, Show-Me 4-H Character, that consists of 5 modules designed to help us serve you better and help you be more successful and effective in teaching character to young people. Please help us in assuring that these materials are fulfilling that goal by sharing with us what you have learned. Please take a few minutes to answer the following questions.

1. There are three domains of learning that are used in teaching character – the head, the heart and the habit.
 True False
2. If I am obedient, I will be a person of character.
 True False
3. Our conscience is just another word for character.
 True False
4. What we say we value is called stated values; what we actually value through our actions is called operational values.
 True False
5. Ethics are beliefs about moral right and wrong.
 True False
6. My self-interest should guide my decisions of character.
 True False
7. What additional information about character development theory would be helpful to you in your work with youth?

CHARACTER COUNTS! and the Six Pillars of Character are service marks of the CHARACTER COUNTS! Coalition, a project of the Josephson Institute of Ethics.
www.charactercounts.org