

News Release
2017 National 4-H Poultry & Egg Conference

The 2017 National 4-H Poultry and Egg Conference was held November 15-16 at the Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center in Louisville. This annual conference allows 4-Hers from all over the country to compete in educational events that help them learn to make and defend decisions, speak publicly, and gain poultry-related skills.

This annual 4-H conference includes five separate competitive events. In the Poultry Judging contest, participants are required to judge ready-to-cook chicken and turkey carcasses, live production hens, and market eggs. In the Chicken and Turkey Barbecuing contests participants barbecue three chicken halves or two turkey fillets and give an oral presentation on the corresponding poultry industry. In the Egg Preparation demonstration contest participants demonstrate preparation an egg dish while giving an oral presentation on the nutritional value and versatility of eggs. In addition to these events, the conference includes an Avian Bowl contest which is a double-elimination tournament in which the contestants are required to answer questions regarding poultry science, poultry meat and egg production, and information about the poultry industries.

A Poultry Careers workshop is also held at the conference, exposing the 4-Hers to hands-on information from poultry food industry personnel and the participants are given pertinent information about career and educational opportunities in poultry industries. This year there were two speakers at the workshop. Tracy McKenney spoke about working at Perdue. Mr. Phillip Clauer, from the Pennsylvania State University, spoke about opportunities in poultry science programs.

At the 2017 National 4-H Poultry and Egg Conference, 147 senior 4-Hers, representing 26 states, participated as teams or individuals in the various events. Twenty teams and four independent individuals participated in the Poultry Judging contest and thirteen teams competed in the Avian Bowl contest. Eleven individuals participated in the Chicken Barbecue contest, seven in the Turkey Barbecue, and eight in the Egg Preparation Demonstration.

Mrs. Barbara Jenkins of the USPOULTRY Foundation, along with Mr. Jon Cole of Poultry Science Association, attended the conference and participated at the awards banquet. Along with the 4-Hers, an additional 203 people, including poultry specialists, county extension agents, 4-H leaders, coaches, chaperones, and other family members, helped make the conference a success. The conference was funded through contributions of goods, finances, and services from many individuals, companies, and commodity organizations. A total of 23 donors provided financial support for awards.

The Avian Bowl contest was won by the team from California. Each team member was awarded a plaque, gold pin and $100. The winning team members were Siana Barrett, Kayla Hurl, and Abigail Milanese. They were coached by Mr. Dan Milanese. The remaining top teams were Ohio (2nd – each member received a plaque, gold pin and $75); New York (3rd – each member received a plaque, silver pin and $60), Minnesota (4th – each member received a silver pin and $50); Pennsylvania (5th – each member received a bronze pin and $25); and Wisconsin (6th – each member received a bronze pin and $25). Other participating teams included Alabama, Alaska, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Kentucky, and North Carolina.

The National 4-H Poultry and Egg conference is where competition and fellowship develop the next generation of leaders.

- The poultry judging contest teaches participants to make decisions in an orderly manner, use reasoning skills, and to accurately communicate decisions. Participants are required to evaluate ready-to-cook chicken and turkey carcasses, live production hens, and market eggs.
- The avian bowl is a double elimination contest for state teams patterned after other knowledge bowls. Contestants must have a comprehensive knowledge of subject matter for several species of poultry, food safety, physiology, nutrition, eggs, and other subjects.
- In the egg preparation demonstration contest participants are required to prepare an egg dish, demonstrate presentation skills, and incorporate knowledge of the egg industry, egg quality and nutrition.
- In the chicken and turkey barbecue contest participants barbecue three chicken halves or two turkey fillets and give an oral presentation on the corresponding poultry industry. Participants develop skills in barbecuing, preparation of a product, and a presentation that demonstrates knowledge of the subject industry, food safety, and product attributes.
